ATLANTA: This November, Atlanta's creative and entrepreneurial community will gather for a transformative evening at the return of Story Stage by ALIVE Collective — an immersive night of storytelling, conversation, and connection designed to spark personal and collective reinvention. Centered around the question “Who are we now?” the evening invites guests to reflect on identity and transformation in a world that's constantly evolving—offering a space to land, reflect, and rise together.

Hosted by Dr. Karin Luise, award-winning author, spiritual psychologist, and transformation expert, the event takes place Wednesday, Nov. 12 from 5:00–7:30 p.m. at Serendipity Labs in Buckhead. Guests will experience a welcoming champagne reception followed by a series of authentic, unscripted conversations with visionary leaders and creators who have redefined their purpose through change.

This year's Story Stage lineup includes:

- Jenny Levison, beloved Atlanta entrepreneur and owner of Souper Jenny, known for her community-focused restaurants and mission to nourish body and soul. Jenny's story is one of continuous reinvention, creativity, and fearless authenticity — a reminder that leadership begins with heart.
- Femi Ola, fashion designer and founder of Ade by Femi, a bold headwear and apparel brand celebrating culture, identity, and empowerment. Femi's journey bridges artistry and advocacy, inspiring others to own their truth through style and self-expression.
- Parish Hattub, spiritual coach, retreat founder, and intuitive healer, guiding others to reconnect with their inner wisdom. Her story of resilience and rediscovery offers a grounded reminder that transformation begins within.

Together, they'll take the Story Stage to explore themes of purpose, reinvention, and authenticity through open dialogue — not scripted speeches. Each speaker will share deeply personal journeys of creativity, courage, and rediscovery. The evening concludes with a guided reflection and “energy reset” experience led by Dr. Karin, offering guests a chance to release, recharge, and realign with their own next chapter.

Dr. Karin has spent over two decades helping people find healing and purpose after life's biggest shifts — from trauma and heartbreak to reinvention and renewal. A former television host and longtime columnist, her insights have been featured in Forbes, The Washington Post, CNN, and FOX, among others. Through her best-selling book “The Fatherless Daughter Project” and her acclaimed programs, she bridges the worlds of psychology, spirituality, and neuroscience to guide individuals and leaders in rediscovering their power and presence.

“The world is full of people rebuilding their lives — after loss, after change, after success that no longer fits,” says Dr. Karin. “ALIVE Collective is a space for that reinvention. It's about coming home to yourself and realizing you're not doing it alone.”

The ALIVE Collective has grown from an intimate local gathering into a movement devoted to expansion, connection, and authentic living. Each event offers a space to pause, reflect, and remember who you're becoming — alongside a community doing the same.
